The Tornade of Securday Might.
[From the Pittsburg Gasette of April 15.]
The hurricane of Saturday night spread over a large territory, and we hear of much destruction of property in different sections. The sides of the new bridge of Kittanning were blown off. and were floated dawn the Alteybooy until they reached the pleas of the new ratiroad bridge, where they lodged. Miles or fences were also prostrated. A colored man was injured so badly by a tree failing upon his house and breaking it teat his life is despaired of.

In Bridgewa'er, the gable end of the Methodist church was blown in.

Reports of the disastrous consequences of the stores in Old Harmony, Betler county, reach us. We learn that one-half of the town as blown down, and that a man and a cridere fring on a farm, a short distance from the place, were hived.

Since writing the above, we have been kindly furnished with the following account by a gentleman of Kittanning:

and a crid re iting on a farm, a short dustance from the place, were hired.

Sirce writing the above, we have been kindly furnished with the following account by a gentleman of Kittanning:—

Between six and seven o'clock on Sa'urday evening, at Klistaning; a dark clone arose in the West, and in a short time a tempest burst over the town mire severe than ever before experienced, accompanie with vivid flashes of lightning and some rein. The fine new bridge across the Alegheey river, which had only a few dars before been opened to the public, was lifted by the wind bodily, as if it had been a straw, and thrown into the river poli wire plers, and the water being very high, at the time, it floated off at once. Mr. Todd, the calentor, and another gentleman, were at the toil house on the bridge. Mr. Todd escaped by springing upon the abuttient, but the other gentle man was carried away with the bridge. He was plunged into the water when the bridge first struck it, out he soon mounted to the top, where it e stood ecurrly and coolly until resided about a mile below.

The steeples of the Ediscopal and Catholis churches were blown off; several houses were unroofed; one new unfirther trame house and several stables were prostrated, and many trees and fences. For a white the scene was really terrific; and to add to the general alarm and excitament, the cry of fire was raised in the midst of the storm.

The loss of the bridge is a serious one both to the storm.

The loss of the bridge is a serious one both to the storm.

A Kitanning, the storm park was not injured. A part of the superstruch re is lodged against the head of Wainwight's Island, two niles below fine dy; another part, it is said, is aground at or near the P. int.

A Kitanning, the storm particle of the na'ure of a whirlwid, as trees and roofs appear to have been thrown in different circett ins. A mile or two below there was a string west wind, but it did no damage. But east and west or that town, however, in the fine of the storm, houses and barns were prostrate where hearly impassable. The terror of the inadictains appr arbee the extreme, and they took refuge in their ceilars.

The new roof of the German Reformed Church was blown off.

The roof of one house and upper story were blown down, burying in the ruins the 'amily which one pied it. When they got out the marter of the family was found to be much it jured.

On Sunday morning the postmaster was out bright and early with a patchfork, rabing among the ruins to find the post effice.

In Alleghery the gale was more severe. The roofs of the blockerm in and machine shops of the outer depot of the Obio and Pennsylvania Railroad Company were blown off, but no one was injured. The chimney of a frame house on the corner of Obio and Beaver streets, owaed by George R Riddle Eq., was allowed down, crusting in the roof, rendering the upper part in mabile a sie. The gable end of a millinery store in the D amond was also blown down. The ceck of a new steamer, building for a Kanawha company, at the cutlet lock of the canal, was blown off.

We are it debted to Mr. Cyrpelius, conductor of the express train of the O. and P. R. E., for the following fall secount of the effects of the storm along the line of the rost:

the storm that swept over our county on Saturday last was trightful in its mesgaitude and if astrous in its results. It extended slong the line of the O. & P.
